HISTORIC SPEECH ON INDIA

HOUSE CHEERS MR. BALDWIN

TORY LEADER STRESSES NEED OF UNITY OF ALL PARTIES.

GANDHI GOING TO LONDON?

Cheers from the crowded galleries in the House of Commons greeted Mr. Stanley Baldwin, the Conservative leader, who opened the debate on India yesterday with a brilliant and historic speech.

Referring to the difficulties confronting many Conservatives, Mr. Baldwin declared that if those who faced the subject of India in a niggling and grudging spirit were the majority of the Party, in God's name let them choose another leader.

If they were in the minority let them cease throwing difficulties in the way of those who had undertaken an almost superhuman task, on the successful performance of which depended the prosperity, the well-being, and the duration of the British Empire.

"VICTORY OF COMMONSENSE"

London, Yesterday. The galleries in the House of Commons were crowded to-day, with Lords Peel and Lloyd in the Peers' Gallery and a number of Indians in the Dominions' Gallery, when the debate on India began on the Civil Estimates vote.

Mr. Winston Churchill from the outset sought a ruling as regards the permissible scope of the debate. The chairman ruled have surrendered to Mr. Churchill. (Laughter). There has been no surrender; there has been no victory, but there has been a victory of common sense.

Mr. Baldwin, concluded by paying a tribute to Lord Irwin, and saying that such a conclusion as had been reached could have been reached by no other Briton.

Need for Unity.

Mr. Baldwin, in stating that whatever happened in India, the area of goodwill and co-operation had been definitely enlarged, quoted, amid laughter, the words of Mr. Churchill in 1920 in reference to Egypt, emphasising that the "British way of doing things implied a close and perpetual co-operation with the peoples of the country, and this has been nowhere so successful as in India."

Mr. Baldwin said that there could be no better summing up of the situation than that speech.

Mr. Baldwin stressed the need for unity among all parties on the subject of India. He was convinced that such writings as appear in papers like the Daily Mail do more to lose India than anything. Mr. Baldwin said that many people were blind to the alarming rapidly with which the East was changing, and declared that the ultimate result in India (and he again referred to the passage by Mr. Churchill, which he quoted) depended not on force but goodwill, sympathy, and understanding between India and Great Britain.

Lord Irwin's great work was that he bridged the gulf and his

that there could be a general debate on administration but the future legislation could not be discussed.

Grave Difficulties.

Mr. Stanley Baldwin, who opened the debate, said that the Conservative Party stood exactly where it stood in his speech at Newton Abbot, in which he said that the main objective was an All-India Federation, but there were many grave difficulties and the Conservative Party was not committed—every one was not committed—because it was impossible to pronounce a definite opinion until a definite plan had been submitted. They must judge how far it was possible to achieve the federal idea without surrendering the essential safeguards, and added that in spite of what they might have read or heard, the Party co-operation which existed in this country since the appointment of the Simon Commission had not been broken and remained exactly where it was.

No Surrender.

Mr. Baldwin said that there had been recently much excitement about nothing. The Government, after the conference, made a suggestion involving the sending of delegates to India. He himself and the colleagues he consulted, including four members of the Round Table Conference, unanimously felt that it was the business of the Government of the day to take this matter in hand. He told the Government and now he told the House that Conservatives were willing at all times to be consulted.

Mr. Baldwin deprecated most strongly the use of the words "victory" and "surrender" as regards the Irwin-Gandhi conversations. "I have been told that I name would stand out in history as one of our greatest Viceroy's. Choose Another Leader.

Referring to the difficulties confronting many Conservatives, Mr.

FRENCH BOURSE TAX MAY GO.

Scheme to Transform Budget Deficit.

WOULD GIVE SURPLUS.

Paris, Yesterday. The Finance Committee of the Chamber have adopted amendments providing for a two per cent. reduction in sections of the estimates of the War Marine dealing with "material and building," also the abolition of a reduction tax on long term Bourse operations, which have been enforced since last April. If Parliament votes on the amendments the deficit in the Budget will be transformed into a surplus of 21,000,000 francs.—Reuter.

Baldwin declared that if those who faced the subject of India in a niggling and grudging spirit were the majority in the Party in God's name let them choose another leader; if they were the minority let them cease throwing difficulties in the way of those who had undertaken an almost superhuman task, on whose successful performance depended the well-being, the prosperity, and the duration of the British Empire. (Cheers).

Historic Speech.

Mr. Wedgwood Benn, Secretary for India, said that after Mr. Baldwin's historic speech there was really nothing to add from the point of view of the Indian situation. He was certain that Mr. Baldwin's words would be read with relief and delight by all sections of opinion in India. No one would be more encouraged in his task than the Viceroy.

If Mr. Baldwin stood by the declaration which Lord Peel made on January 26—and it was so, Mr. Benn declared—the work on which they all had been engaged would go forward, and with success. (Cheers).

Delegation to India. Mr. Wedgwood Benn said that the Government had carefully considered sending a Parliamentary delegation to India forthwith to reconstitute the Round Table Conference with the addition of representatives of Congress, but the advantages of this plan were outweighed by important practical considerations, including the exigency of the Parliamentary situation here and the necessity of much preliminary work in India by Indians.

Immediately the Indian delegates, including the representatives of Congress, were prepared to resume the discussions the Government proposed to invite them to come to London and resume the work of the Federal Relations Committee. They hoped the whole problem would be ready for a final discussion early in the Autumn.

Mr. Churchill Pessimistic. Mr. Winston Churchill declared that the developments of the past six weeks might be a subject for congratulation among those agreed upon the establishment of an All-Indian Federation with a responsible Government as the precursor of full Dominion status; but less enthusiasm was pardonable in those who thought that these processes were premature and dangerous and likely to lead to confusion and disaster. Nevertheless, the fact that Conservatives would not be represented at any Round Table Conference in India made amends for much. Moreover, the chances of an agreement that would unite all sections in India and be ratified by the British Parliament were remote, and slight, while the probabilities of a breakdown were enormous.

Test of Honour. The House of Commons agreed to the vote on account Mr. Ramsay MacDonald, winding up the debate, said that an invitation had already gone to the Viceroy to endeavour to assist an early meeting in London of the Federal Structures Committee, and there were hopes that Gandhi would be present.

The Round Table Conference had been very useful in laying down the preliminary conditions of a federal union. The child accidentally fell into a small bath tub full of boiling water.

SHIPPERS' PROTEST TO PREMIER.

Suez Canal Dues A Burden on Britain.

MERCHANTS' RESOLUTION.

London, Yesterday. The Council of the Mercantile Marine Service Association (the senior representative body of British ship masters and officers) has sent a letter to Mr. Ramsay MacDonald supporting the Shipping Merchants' resolution in regard to the Suez Canal dues.—Reuter.

[An earlier message stated: the Shipping Merchants' Committee of the Manchester Chamber of Commerce passed a resolution expressing the opinion that the high dues charged by the Suez Canal Company are proving a serious disadvantage to British trade and an advantage to inter-Asian and other competitive trades which are free from the heavy burden of dues.

The Committee urges that His Majesty's Government, as the largest individual shareholder in the Canal Company, should use its influence to secure a reduction to five gold francs per ton in respect of loaded ships, and two and a half in respect of ships in ballast, in accordance with the arrangement made in 1882 between British ship-owners and the Canal Company.]

JAPANESE ROYAL INFANT NAMED.

Princess of Honesty and Obedience.

ANCIENT COURT RITES.

Tokyo, Yesterday. In accordance with the ancient Court rites, the naming ceremony for the new born Imperial child was carried out in the Royal Palace this morning.

The infant Princess was named Atsuko Yorinomiya, which may roughly be translated as "Princess of Honesty and Obedience."—Reuter.

[A message of March 7 stated: at noon a long drawn shriek of a siren announced the birth of an Imperial infant. It had been arranged beforehand that there would be one blast for a daughter and two for a son.

When the siren sounded the whole of Tokyo ceased work and listened expectantly. Three times previously during the past six years, when the birth of an Imperial child was expected, similar arrangements were made to indicate the sex.

Intense excitement prevailed today after the first blast but the second never followed and there was obvious disappointment that prayers for a son and heir to the throne remain unanswered.]

TORY VICTORY.

RESULT OF SALISBURY BY-ELECTION.

London, Yesterday. The Salisbury by-election, due to the resignation of Mr. Hugh Morrison (Conservative) has resulted as follows:—

Mr. Spencer Robertson (Cons.) 15,800
Mrs. C. F. G. Masterman (Lib.) 9,588
Mr. F. R. Hancock (Lab.) 3,939

This gives a Conservative majority of 6,214.—Reuter.

[The polling at the General Election was:—
Mr. Hugh Morrison (Cons.) 15,872
Mrs. Masterman (Lib.) 13,022
Mr. Hancock (Lab.) 4,436

Conservative majority 2,650]

SCALDED IN TUB.

The death of a Portuguese child under tragic circumstances—on the first floor of 556, Nathan Road, is told in the Police reports this morning.

Dr. J. T. Smalley, medical officer in charge of the Kowloon Hospital, reported that Frederick Ribeiro, aged two years and a half, was admitted to Hospital on Wednesday, suffering from severe scalds and died soon after admission.

The child accidentally fell into a small bath tub full of boiling water.

OPERATION ON MR. SNOWDEN.

May Return to Duties After Easter.

SPECIALIST'S DECISION.

London, Yesterday. The Harley Street surgeon, Sir John Thompson Walker, lengthily examined Mr. Snowden to-day and decided to perform a minor operation on March 16. It was at one time feared that a major operation might be necessary. It is hoped that Mr. Snowden will be able to return to the House of Commons after Easter.—Reuter.

[Mr. Philip Snowden, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, has been ill for several days, suffering from influenza. His doctors called in the eminent consulting surgeon, Sir John Thompson Walker, on March 7.]

MUI TSAI CONTROL. Orders For Inspection Carried Out.

London, Yesterday. In the House of Commons at question time Mr. E. T. Campbell (Conservative, Bromley, Kent) asked why the Orders contained in the Secretary of State's despatch on August 22, 1929, instructing that steps should be taken forthwith to establish machinery for the inspection, control and remuneration of Mui Tsai in Hong Kong had not been carried out.

Dr. Drummond Shiels replied that Mr. Campbell was mistaken in thinking that the instructions were not carried out.—Reuter.

WILL AMERICA SIGN NAVAL PACT?

Views Similar to Those of Japan.

RATIFICATION BY SENATE.

Washington, Yesterday. Several informal conferences regarding the British, French and Italian naval agreement have been held between the Japanese Ambassador and officials of the State Department, and it is believed that the attitude of the Japanese and American Government is very similar.

Mr. Castle, Assistant Secretary of State, stated on behalf of Mr. Stimson that the incorporation of the agreement in a new five-Power Treaty would involve ratification by the Senate.—Reuter's American Service.

FAIR RETURN ON INVESTMENT.

Legal Argument in Mortgage Case.

EXPERT EVIDENCE.

The question of a fair return on investment in Hong Kong cropped up in the Supreme Court this morning.

The occasion was the continuation of the much-disputed case in which plaintiff, Mrs. Chu Shuk, widow of 121, Caine Road, brought action against the Banque Franco-Chinoise pour le Commerce et l'Industrie for damage under an indenture of mortgage dated December 5, 1928, made between herself as to the first part, W. M. Pittendrigh as to second part, and defendants as to third part.

Lieut. Col. L. G. Bird, of Messrs. Palmer & Turner, stated that he made a valuation of the property on April 1, 1930, and valued it at $30,000. He took the value of the land at $30 per square foot, and the value of the building at $3,500.

Mr. Jonkin suggested that Mr. Carr Clark had given it as his opinion that the land was worth $45 per square foot—I consider that to be too high, much too high. Cross-examined by Mr. Sheldon, witness said he had heard the ques-

WHAT THE ALLIES OWE BRITAIN

Our Position in Regard to War Debts.

GERMANY PAYS UP.

London, Yesterday. The position of Great Britain in regard to War debts was outlined by Mr. F. W. Pethick-Lawrence (Financial Secretary to the Treasury) in reply to a question in the House of Commons. He said that the amount to be received during the financial year from Germany in reparations annuities was £16,300,000, and from Allied debts £17,700,000, making a total of £34,000,000 against £38,000,000 to be paid during the same period to the United States in respect of British War debts. The receipts from the Dominions during the same period amounted to £7,632,000, which represented the repayment of moneys borrowed in Britain on behalf of the Dominions and which could not be reckoned as a set off against the American debt payments.—Reuter.

THOSE PIGS!

LEAD TO $100 FINE ON A SKIPPER.

Captain Larier, of the s.s. Klungchow, this morning pleaded "guilty" before the Hon. Comdr. G. F. Hols, R.N., (retired), to a charge of having arrived in the Colony on March 11 with pigs in crates on board the ship, the pigs not being stowed in accordance with regulations.

The Magistrate, in passing sentence of a fine of $100 or two months' jail in default, said that this kind of offence must cease. The regulation under which the summons was taken out had been in force since last September and yet people did not seem to take any notice of it.

RAIN AND FOG.

The Royal Observatory's weather report, to-day, states: A weak anti-cyclone is central over the Eastern sea. Moderate to light monsoon along the N.E. coast of China and over the N. China Sea. Forecast—Easterly winds, moderate; overcast; some light rain and fog.

Rainfall. Rainfall for 24 hours ended at 10 a.m. to-day—nil. Rainfall since January 1—1.07 inches against an average of 4.04 inches—deficit 2.97 inches.

Temperature.

The temperature at certain specified centres this morning at 6 o'clock was:—
Hong Kong 62
Macao 61
Pratas Island 72

Hons put to Mr. MacKichan, and they did not alter his (witness's) opinion at all.

This concluded the evidence and the hearing was adjourned.

DRIVER'S DIFFICULT CHOICE.

WHAT WAS HIS DUTY?

Holding that the defendant's car should never have been where it was in Chater Road Mr. Schofield at the Central Magistracy this morning imposed a fine of $5 on Lo Wing-sun, the driver of a public car, who was summoned for having failed to drive on the left hand side of Chater Road on February 19, at 10.45 a.m.

Mr. Horace Lo appeared for the defendant. It will be recalled that there was a slight collision between a combination motor cycle driven by Traffic Sergeant Guild, and the defendant's car. Referring to the accident, Mr. T. H. G. Brayfield, who was a passenger in the car, in evidence, stated that in his opinion the motor cycle swept too wide into Chater Road from Ice House Street, and was going a little too fast. For the driver of the car to back the whole way to Statue Square would obviously be dangerous.

Mr. Lo submitted that no offence had been committed. The rule that "a driver shall keep to the left hand side of the road" was not imperative, applying only to cars when going along a road, and was not included when the driver of a car manoeuvred the vehicle to get it into position. He quoted two cases, and submitted that the authorities went to show that the "left hand side" was a mere convenience. His Worship decided against Mr. Lo, and held that if the driver wanted to go forward it was his place to send someone to see if the cross-road was clear of traffic. He was willing to take the error of judgment on the part of the driver, and was quite prepared to admit to Mr. Lo that the defendant had had a difficult choice. He would be fined $5.

A YOUNG SCOUNDREL.

Described by Mr. E. W. Hamilton in the Kowloon Court this morning as a young scoundrel, Cheung Shing, 16, a returned banished, was ordered to receive 16 strokes of the birch and go to jail for three months. He said that he came back to get ten dollars and that he had no intention of staying in Hong Kong. In his crowded young life he was cautioned once, and whipped twice, and had committed burglary and assault.

TOO TALKATIVE!

Major F. R. Roche-Kelly, R.A.V.C., was summoned before Mr. Schofield at the Central Magistracy this morning for having left his motor car unattended in Des Vaux Road Central on February 25, at 11 a.m.

Major Roche-Kelly admitted the offence. He explained that that he went to see a friend in Jardine's office, and meant to stay for a minute or two. But unfortunately he got into conversation and stayed a long time in the office. A fine of $5 was imposed.

STOP PRESS

Cologne, Yesterday. A meeting of the International Raw Steel Cartel in Dusseldorf decided to continue the restriction of the normal output by 30 per cent. during the second quarter of 1931.—Reuter.

London, Yesterday. Members of the House of Commons of all Parties agree that Mr. Baldwin's spirited speech was the outstanding feature of the India debate and one of the most notable in his political career. It is expected to have an important effect on India in removing misunderstandings caused by the India Committee's bold if not mischievous announcement. His reassertion of the responsible Conservative objective in regard to Indian constitutional changes is endorsed by all sections of the Press, except the Rothermere and Beaverbrook organs.—Reuter.

COMPANY MEETINGS

A. S. WATSON & CO., LIMITED.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the FORTY-SIXTH ANNUAL GENERAL MEETING of the Company (since its registration) will be held at the Hong Kong Hotel, Hong Kong,
on MONDAY, the 16th March, 1931, at 11.30 a.m., for the purpose of receiving the Report of the General Managers, together with a Statement of Accounts for the year ended 31st October, 1930.

The REGISTER OF SHARES of the Company will be CLOSED from WEDNESDAY, the 11th day of March, to TUESDAY, the 17th day of March, 1931, both days inclusive, during which period no transfer of shares can be registered.

OUR NEIGHBOUR
MARS.Controversy of Martian
Canals.

ITS CLOSE APPROACH.

After an interval of about two years Mars has once again returned to our night skies says the Astronomical Correspondent of the Manchester Guardian. Even the most uninitiated star-gazer can have no difficulty in identifying our neighbour world.

Even the casual observer will notice that Mars is distinctly inferior to Jupiter in apparent brightness. Though Mars is so much nearer to us, Jupiter has a diameter of 86,000 miles and Mars no more than 4,260 miles. But on occasion Mars does surpass Jupiter in brilliance, as was the case in 1924. The orbit of Mars is more markedly elliptical than the average. Indeed, it was by means of a study of the path of Mars that Kepler discovered the first of his famous laws—that the planets move round the sun in elliptical paths. The earth, revolving in an orbit inferior to that of Mars, requires considerably less time to complete its circuit of the sun.
The Martian year is equal to 687 of our days. Every two years and two months or so the earth over-takes Mars, and when the planet is in a line with the earth and the sun
it is in opposition. But of course these oppositions do not take place
at the same points of the orbits.
Owing to the eccentricity of the Martian orbit the earth and Mars may approach each other within 34,000,000 miles. Oppositions which occur in August are the most favourable; oppositions in February the least. The present opposition, taking place at the end of January, is about as unfavourable as possible, that of 1933 will be almost equally so.

Recent investigations.
Nevertheless, the approach of Mars is always an event of importance in the astronomical world; and even an unfavourable opposition has compensating advantages. To us in the northern hemisphere Mars is high in the sky and may be observed through much less thickness of atmosphere than in August, when it traverses the lower zodiacal constellations. Further, at these unfavourable oppositions Mars turns its northern hemisphere towards us, and region of Mars are open to full inspection which are not so well seen when the planet makes its nearest approaches.

That Mars is the most earthlike
of all the planets is generally ac-knowledgeed, though it would appear that it is not so earthlike as used to be supposed. The earlier observers who mapped the planet and gave names to the blue-green and reddish-ochre areas were of opinion that the former were permanent bodies of water—oceans
and seas,—and that the latter represented the continents of our neighbour world. Within the last half-century, however, it has been shown that "his interpretation of the appearance of Mars is incorrect. The work of Schiaparelli, followed by that of Lowell, Pickering, Slipher, and others, proved conclusively that there are no permanent oceans on Mars; that the blue-green areas are fertile lands,
and that the reddish-ochre areas are desert. The discovery of the famous "canals"—long straight markings crossing not only the reddish-ochre regions, but the blue-green areas as well, finally disproved the idea that these areas are aqueous in nature. The Martian
"seas" are temporary bodies of water, resulting from the melting of the polar caps. These are visible as broad, blue belts which become prominent when the white snowcaps are shrinking in the Martian summer-time.

The Canals.

For many years controversy has raged concerning the nature of the Martian canals. The most widely canvassed theory was that of the late Professor Lowell, founder and first director of the Lowell Observatory in Arizona. Lowell maintained that these straight dark lines were much too geometrical in form and arrangement to be natural objects. He regarded them as strips of fertilized ground, on either side of waterways much too small to be seen—waterways constructed by the inhabitants of Mars to convey the water from the melting polar caps
to the parched and thirsty equatorial regions; while he viewed the dark spots at the canal junctions as
"oases," or centres of population.

This theory has, of course, been hotly contested; but it has been strengthened rather than weakened in recent years by the discovery
made by means of radiometric measures at the Lowell and Mount Wilson Observatories that the mean annual temperature of Mars is not so much lower than that of the earth as had been supposed; and the discovery at the Lick Observatory that the Martian atmosphere is

HIGHLAND HOPES
CHARGES.False Portuguese Report.

CHARGES AGAINST CREW.

The allegation that Portuguese newspapers deliberately made and published damaging charges against the officers and crew of the Highland Hope in order to injure British shipping interests was made at the hearing of the Board of Trade Inquiry into the loss of the liner, says the London Daily Telegraph.

The vessel, a Nelson motor-liner
of 14,129 tons, ran on to the rocks
of the Farilhoes, off the Portuguese coast, on November 19, in dense fog. All the 545 passengers and crew were saved. The inquiry, which opened on January 27, is being conducted by Mr. John H.
Harris (metropolitan magistrate)
at the Law Courts.

After evidence had been concluded Mr. C. Miller (for the owners) submitted that the owners
had done all they could by providing the officers with every means of navigation and by seeing that an accident of this kind should not become a first-class disaster.

"Disgracefully Untrue."
"Almost immediately after the stranding," he added, "there were reports in the Portuguese papers in which it was alleged that the officers and crew of this ship were drunk, and that the crew flung themselves into the boats, leaving the passengers to fend for themselves, and with no rowers in the boats.

"These reports purport to be interviews with a Portuguese officer and with seamen. Whether those seamen made those statements I do not know. One would not like to think a seaman would make statements of that kind about his comrades.

"Whether it is to be attributed to the effervescence of Portuguese journalism I do not know, but this I do know—that these reports are absolutely and disgracefully untrue."

"They injure not only these owners, they injure British shipping abroad, and one can only think they were made and published deliberately to injure our interests.
There can be no other reason, because all the evidence shows that the officers and crew behaved splendidly in the face of extreme danger."

Plucky Officers.

Mr. F. R. Hayward (for the second and fourth officers) contended that they had carried out the handling of the boats to the best of their ability and in a plucky, gallant, and painstaking manner.

He referred to the evidence of Group-Capt. R. C. M. Pink, a passenger on the liner, who had criticised the officers and crew in connection with the lowering and manning of the boats and also the boats' equipment.

Mr. Hayward described it as a "wicked and reprehensible thing"
for a senior officer in his Majesty's Forces "to give irresponsible and unreliable evidence, even though the element of that officer is no longer the cold grey sea, but the hot air where I propose, without further comment, to leave him."

Earlier Mr. Harris had said that they attached no importance to Cmdr. Pink's evidence.

Grain exports from Saint John continue to be much heavier this season than last, deliveries to mid-January amounting to 2,792,571
bushels as compared with 988,305
bushels for the corresponding period of last season.

denser than even Lowell believed.
These discoveries, have warranted
Professor Pickering in saying that "animal life may readily exist in Mars. Indeed, a possibility exists that even human life, if transported to Mars, might exist and flourish
there."

As to the canals themselves, there is a general consensus of opinion among observers that whatever be our interpretation of these enigmatic markings, they certainly exist as objective features of the Martian surface. Sir James Jeans
in his popular book on "The Universe Around Us" goes far beyond his warrant in stating that "the supposed canals of Mars disappear
when looked at through a really large telescope, and have not survived the test of being photographed."

The present opposition may throw fresh light on some of the problems presented by Mars. Professor Pickering states that during the next few weeks the northern polar cap will be gradually turned towards us more and more, and will be of maximum use. "The formation and development of the northern marshes corresponding to our marshes in Siberia and Northern Canada," will be of interest to the watch.

PRINCE TO VISIT LIVERPOOL.

The Prince of Wales is to pay a ceremonial visit to Liverpool in the early Autumn of 1931 in his capacity as Master of the Merchant Navy and Fishing Fleets, the title conferred upon him by the King in February, 1928.

Among the Prince's engagements in Liverpool will be a banquet at the Town Hall in connection with the Honorable

Company of Master Mariners, which has a large membership on Merseyside, and of which Sir Burton Chadwick, M.P., is Deputy Master. The new roadway under the Mersey will then be nearing completion, and it is expected that the Prince will be eager to add to his many explorations a run underground from Lancashire to Cheshire, though the official opening of the tunnel will still be some time ahead.

TOILERS OF THE DEEP.

The Catamarans of Ceylon.

There is perhaps no profession which calls so much for the exercise of the sterling qualities of enterprise, endurance, and courage as the harvest of the sea. The primitive fisherman plying his fragile craft on the rough surface of the coastal waters is a familiar sight along the shores of India and Ceylon, but few apparently appreciate the sturdy virtues which his occupation demands. And this is particularly true of the average Ceylon fisherman, whose life is one of hard toil, cruel uncertainties, and considerable risks. These handicaps are, however, matched by his excellent physique built up by a simple life. And Nature it would appear, in accordance with the universal law of compensation offers to the "toilers of the deep" abundant return.

The life of the deep-sea fishing community is distinct from that of the Marakan class whose business is usually confined to the coast. Long before dawn the canoes are drawn up and the men, having done due justice to a hearty meal, proceed with net and tackle to board their tiny vessels, each usually containing four souls, skipper included. Once the boats successfully negotiate the on-rushing shore waves, they plod gaily along to the accompaniment of crude music into uncharted seas infested with sharks, with absolutely no guide save that of the stars, and their own empirical knowledge in the matter of oceanic navigation. Perched on their craft, it would seem that one false step and these men would be overboard! But their confidence in their own craft and skill is indeed amazing.

Maybe, as usually happens, the small fleet divides, to meet again if all be well. Such separation hardly appears to concern them in the least so long as there is not much freakish weather. While the men are on their job with their nets, we must return to land to see the other part of the picture.

Should the fleet's absence be prolonged and rough weather arise, there is much anxiety. Harbour authorities are approached to institute a search, perhaps only to hear later from them the news of the safe arrival of the whole party with a bumper harvest! Occasionally, the fishermen find themselves the victims of terrible gales but, disaster is rare. Even then the victims swim to shore or cling tenaciously to what remains of their craft, hungry and weather-bitten, until picked up by a passing boat. Often they are none the worse for this experience. Cases are on record, it is told, where catamarans covered the distance between sea-stations adjoining Colombo and Tuticorin during seasons when S.O.S. signals from passing steamers would be usual.

The fishermen are also great smugglers in spite of the vigilance of the authorities on both sides of the Straits. Profits from such a "side-line" are extremely handy in monsoon-time, when much fishing cannot be done. Besides, the Fishermen's Relief Fund, to which all men are compelled to subscribe in proportion to their status and earnings during active seasons, is a source of relief in cases of need.

MEDITERRANEAN HURRICANE.

Score of Fishing Boats

Lost.

Rome, Feb. 23.

Disaster struck Southern Italy,

notably the western seaboard of Sicily, where a 1,000 miles a minute gale, combined with an unprecedented cloudburst,

wrought havoc causing, aside

from heavy material damage,

great loss of life and paralysing

communications. Water in the streets of Palermo is standing six feet deep and the city was plunged in darkness by damage to the power plant. The Rignano River, which is normally a small rivulet,

has turned into a raging torrent,

and is leaving its banks and adding to the floods.

Naples, Messina and Catania

also report heavy damage and loss of life, especially amongst fishermen, who were surprised by the storm on open sea. Two score fishing boats have so far been reported missing. At Catania

waves penetrated the lower districts. At Messina a French

passenger boat and a collier collided when leaving port to fight

the storm on the open sea. At the Naples suburb of Posilippo

the cloudburst caused an earth-

slide burying several houses, from which six bodies have been extricated.

DEBATE ON INDIA.

The Gibbon who will one day in the undetermined future pen the destinies of the British Empire is likely as not to find inspiration for his section on India by referring to three events: the Round Table Conference, the civil revolt of India, and yesterday's debate in the House of Commons. The Conservative leader, often maligned but often justly criticised, made one of the greatest speeches of his political career, and, had the galleries of the House been filled with the shades of the mighty oratorical statesmen of the eighteenth century, we can imagine that the appreciation with which all Parties assembled listened to his speech would have been no less. In spite of himself rather than deliberately, Mr. Baldwin, by the greatness of his speech, regained in that instant the position which he has been steadily losing of recent years as the solid and sincere leader of his party. In appealing for the unity of all parties on this grave and difficult question, with which is bound up the well-being and perhaps the destiny of the Empire, Mr. Baldwin struck a familiar but forceful note. It is the lamentable lack of co-operation politically which has led Britain into so many crises, and it is inconceivable when the Parties are for ever at variance (often on an absurdly remote point) that a sound and definite policy should have evolved. It has long been clear that revision of the Party system is desirable and that on vital matters affecting the Empire some kind of coalition should be formed. The views of the three Parties do not differ very widely on the Indian problem and there is a common policy which all desire to dictate, but for some reason the spirit of co-operation has been sadly lacking. All recognise that the East is changing and that the ultimate goal depends not on force but on goodwill, sympathy, and understanding between India and Great Britain. It cannot be supposed, as Mr. Baldwin remarked, that in this world of evolution India alone is static, and the demand of the country for a federal constitution can no longer be disregarded. The problem which now faces the British Government is how best to achieve this federal idea without surrendering any of the essential safeguards, and it is on this vital point that the co-operation of Parliament is most needed.

Whatever the future may bring for the relationship of Great Britain and a federated India, it is certain that the one man who has prevented a definite rupture of those relations is the Viceroy, who, after many years of suspicion, has bridged the gulf by ability and character. It is a great tribute to his character—character which has given him prestige in India that nothing else could have afforded him—that the conversations with Gandhi ended as they did. Such a conclusion, in the words of Mr. Baldwin, "could have been reached in the circumstances by no other Briton than Lord Irwin."

News in Brief.

One non-Chinese case of diphtheria was notified yesterday from Kowloon.

The lowest open air temperature yesterday was 61 degrees. The humidity was 65 at 10 a.m. and 67 at 4 p.m.

A Chinese boatman of a lighter belonging to Holt's Wharf accidentally fell overboard yesterday, and was drowned.

It is proposed to hold an Old Alleyman dinner on Wednesday, March 25, at 8.15 p.m. in Lane, Crawford's Restaurant.

A passenger travelling from Macao to Hong Kong by the s.s. Sui An yesterday jumped overboard on the journey, and was drowned.

Kong Kai (SB) a coolie, suffered injuries to his left leg and foot during blasting operations yesterday at Tai Kok Tsui. He was taken to the Kowloon Hospital.

The Bridge party organised by Mrs. H. A. Taylor, to be held in the Helena May Institute on Wednesday, March 18, in aid of the Victoria Branch of the M.O.L., has been cancelled.

Having returned from leave, Mr. C. L. Sanders has taken over the management of the local branch of the Mercantile Bank of India, Ltd., from Mr. F. Thorogood.

The annual general meeting of the Society of St. George will be held in the Board room of Messrs. Jardine, Matheson and Co., Ltd., on Monday, March 30, at 5.30 p.m.

A Chinese was brought before Mr. E. H. Williams this morning and charged with the unlawful possession of 379 fountain pens and 78 patent pencils, the property of the Commercial Press, Ltd., 35 Queen's Road Central. He was remanded for one week.

A married woman, Ip Kui (62), of 17, Yue Wu Street, was sent to the Government Civil Hospital yesterday suffering from injuries to her head, stated to have been caused by a bamboo pole which fell on her from the third floor of 2, Burrows Street.

Engaged in working on the pro- peller of the s.s. Corator at the Cosmopolitan Dock Lam Kan (42) a coolie, accidentally fell from a staging plank—a height of about ten feet. He was taken to the Kwong Wah Hospital, suffering from injuries to his head.

Early this morning, Revenue officers carried out a raid on board the river steamer Sui Tai and seized a large quantity of opium, estimated to be over 2,000 taels. As a result a Chinese appeared before Mr. W. Schofield in the Central Police Court, and was remanded till to-morrow.

Business worries are alleged to have caused Cheung Kai-ming (41), a merchant living at the Man Fong Boarding house, 142 Connaught Road Central, to attempt to commit suicide by jumping from the first floor of the building. He received injuries to his spine, and was removed to the Government Civil Hospital.

Another case of suspected murder was brought to light yesterday when the body of a Chinese youth aged about 16 years, was discovered on the foreshore at Tein Wan, between the twelfth and thirteenth milestones. The body, which had been in the water for over ten days, had a bullet wound in the head and another in the thigh. A bullet has been extracted from the latter wound.

Members and other interested are reminded that the Scottish concert arranged by the Kowloon Branch of the Helena May Institute is being held at 9 o'clock to-night. The feature will be songs of Lady Nairne with a short reading on her life by the Rev. J. Horace Johnston. Songs will be rendered by Miss Frances McGill and the "Four Bees" Quartette. Admission will be 30 cents for members and 50 cents for non-members.

The S.P.C.A. Carnival Ball takes place to-night when both the Roof Garden and the Rose Room in the Peninsula Hotel will be in use. Supper is to be in the Rose-Room at 11.30 p.m. and the dance will continue until 2 a.m. The Hotel are making arrangements to serve a special dinner for guests who wish to attend the Ball. Tickets will be obtainable at the door and it is expected that many will avail themselves of this facility.

During the business session of the Victoria Diocesan Conference the following were elected to the Executive Council:—Bishop Dupuy, Rev. C. B. Shann, Rev. W. W. Rogers, Miss R. Mow Fung, Rev. N. V. Hayward, Prof. L. Forster, Mr. R. Ashton Hill, Mr. J. W. Baldwin, Prof. J. L. Shell-shear, Mr. A. C. Braine-Hartnell, Dr. G. A. C. Herdott and Rev. A. D. Stewart, Rev. P. Jenkins and Rev. C. B. Shann were re-elected fraternal delegates to the Diocesan Synod.

JOINED THE "REDS." TROOPS SENT TO SUPPRESS MUTINEERS.

RAILWAY IN DANGER.

Hankow, Yesterday.

A brigade of troops despatched from Wu-Han to Liu Ling to suppress the mutineers are also reported to have joined the "Reds," who have now captured Kwang-shui.

The famous Wusengwan pass and the railway tunnel beneath are in serious danger of capture by the "Reds." The railway staff at Kwangshui have left the place.

The new plant of the Ontario Fertilisers Limited at East Saint John has been erected in thirty days and is the largest of its kind in the Maritimes, with a capacity of 10,000 tons. The finished product will be shipped throughout Canada and the British Empire.

Y.M.C.A.

ANNUAL MEETING OF MEMBERS.

PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS.

The Hon. Mr. W. E. L. Shenton last night presided over the annual meeting of the Y.M.C.A., which was held in the Association building in Salisbury Road, Kowloon.

The report and statement of accounts having been in your hands for more than a week, I do not propose to have them read to-night unless any member should so desire. The annual general meeting has usually been held at 6 p.m., but your Directors decided to change the time to 9 p.m., in the hope that it will be more convenient to members. The attendance this evening indicates that the Directors have been correct in their decision. During Mr. Hunt's absence Mr. McPherson very kindly took over the Secretaryship in addition to his many other duties and we are very appreciative of his assistance and general supervision, although he tells me that most of the detailed work was carried out by Mr. Ingram. Mr. McPherson gave us his services without remuneration and we are therefore very much indebted to him for all he did.

Sir Henry Pollock. Before proceeding further, I want on behalf of our Association to express our gratitude to the Hon. Sir Henry Pollock, who has for so many years been connected with us, and who is now on a long holiday in Europe. Sir Henry Pollock has been connected with us from our beginning in 1904 and has been President of the Association from 1919 until last year. I have had several letters from Sir Henry Pollock, and I am sure you are all glad to hear that both he and Lady Pollock are benefiting by their stay in Europe. Sir Henry Pollock has been indefatigable in his efforts on behalf of our Association, and we shall be very pleased to see both he and Lady Pollock amongst us again.

When at Home last year I had the pleasure of visiting the Head Association and attended one of their regular affairs after which I was shown over the building and had a long talk with Mr. Chamberlain on the general organisation.

I am glad to see that there has been a substantial increase in our gross income. It was unfortunately necessary for the Directors to increase the board and lodging charges as recommended by the House Sub-Committee who had given the matter their very careful consideration, but, on the other hand, I am glad to see that a part of the increase is due to the increase in the number of members which is always a happy augury for the success of any Association and indicates the appreciation of our services. It is a matter for congratulation that a large number of the young men of the Colony are finding this Association a convenient and happy place, in which to spend their leisure time.

Whilst dealing with the finance, I am glad to note the flourishing condition of the various Clubs under our aegis, and it is a matter of satisfaction to see that the members are assuming a larger share in the management of our activities, and this we believe largely contributes to the success of the past year. In the Library and Debating section the general interest appears to have waned when compared with former years, but I hope the coming year will see a renewed interest in this important section.

One of the outstanding events of the past year has been the decision to undertake the present scheme of extension. The desirability has been apparent to your Directors for some time. It is the intention of your Board to obtain a sufficient number of rooms to accommodate casual visitors, members of the mercantile marine and naval ratings, as it has been difficult to meet this already increasing demand, but the addition of 30 bedrooms should bring the necessary relief. Increased facilities for recreation are also badly needed. I have myself noticed how difficult it has been to accommodate those who desire to join in our various social functions, and I have been informed that on one of our evenings nearly 200 members and friends endeavoured to find accommodation. It is unnecessary to point out that a swimming bath is a most useful adjunct to any institution. I cannot pass from this subject without expressing the appreciation of the financial facilities which our Association received from the Hong Kong and Shanghai Banking Corporation, which has enabled us to proceed with the new extension and will not only increase our revenue, but add very considerably to the amenities of our Association.

The Directors believe that the Y.M.C.A. is an asset to any community, but particularly so in a place like Hong Kong, where men are continually arriving from Home. They find themselves in the midst of new conditions, so that an institution of this nature is invaluable in assisting them to become generally acclimatised to their new surroundings.

The Y.M.C.A. is a powerful body. It is a religious and moral institution—not as its enemies would have the world believe, a sanctimonious one. It proscribes no harmless pastime, but, on the contrary, encourages every species of wholesome recreation at proper times and places. The extension of mental, moral and religious culture to all who desire the blessing, is one of its leading objects and another is to place Christianity in its legitimate light before all men, by showing practically that genuine cheerfulness and the practice of virtue are incomparably preferable to the false and fleeting excitement of a life of mere indulgence.

"Christianity is intensely practical. She has no trait more striking than her common sense."

Before concluding, on behalf of the Board I desire to thank all those members who have been uniting their efforts in making the past year so successful for the Y.M.C.A. (Applause.)

Report Adopted.
The annual report and statement of accounts for the year 1930 were taken as read, and adopted by the meeting.

Lieut. Col. W. F. Christian, D.S.O., Mr. J. P. Warren and Mr. F. W. James were re-elected to the Board of Directors.

CORRESPONDENCE.

POPSY IS HURT.

[To the Editor of "China Mail."] My dear,—I do think that middle-aged man was simply too unkind. I cried for hours after reading his letter.

You know I'd never be unkind to dumb animals, and I've always said that even God's humblest creatures like beetles and worms and civil servants and all sorts of crawling things must once have had mothers who cared for them and even if you quite adore them you can be kind to them. And I've got Tubby to buy no end of tickets for the S.P.C.A. Ball and I only hope that everybody who loves animals like me, you know what I mean, will turn up and then it will be a perfectly lovely evening.

And I do think its too bad if a girl can't try to help to suggest how to get money and Angus says I've lots of splendid ideas and last night when Tubby was out with the dog Angus kissed me and said that was a tribute to my genius but for goodness' sake don't tell Tubby, still it is nice to feel there's someone who appreciates you.

And my dear, its simply too wrong what he says about my not being interested in the home and all that because even Tubby says I take as much care of our aspidistra as if it was a baby, and if I am just a tiny wreny bit modern and don't positively dote on antiques and maternity gowns and things I'm always nice minded and perhaps it isn't all my fault as don't let horrid men be unkind to me.

Your very hurt,

Popsy.

WAR BOOKS.

INTERESTING LECTURE BY MR. BOWES SMITH.

LIFE IN THE TRENCHES.

An interesting lecture was given by Mr. A. M. Bowes Smith, who is himself the author of a war book, on "War Books," before the English Association in the Cathedral Hall last night. Mr. Bowes Smith prefaced his remarks by stating that books published during the War and shortly afterwards were mostly forgotten and many of them deserve oblivion. Prior to the Armistice authors were prevented from telling the truth about the War by censorship and through fear of being thought pacifists. Accounts of life in the trenches published at that time are spoiled for present-day readers by the absence of place-names, their lack of candour and criticism, and by silence on most of those aspects of war that are really worth recording.

At the conclusion of the lecture, Mr. H. C. Macnamara, Dr. M. O. Pfister and the Rev. Father C. Byrne added interesting remarks and comments on other books about war which had not been mentioned by the speaker.

Ten Years Ago.

[From the "China Mail" of March 13, 1921.]

To-day's dollar is worth 2 1/4 %.

Judgment in favour of the plaintiff has been given by Mr. Justice J. R. Wood, in the bungalow case in which the Rev. Father A. Houghes claimed $205 from Mr. George Theodore Lam for wrongfully removing the support of the soil of his bungalow at Romantin and committing to shore up or otherwise secure the plaintiff's compound and boundary walls.

structure. The work was going on in India and here. We were placing now a test upon the honour of Britain, not only upon its honour, but upon the capacity of Britain to face a very difficult political situation.

Gandhi to Make Salt.
Borsad, Bombay Presidency, Yesterday.

At the exact hour at which Gandhi a year ago to-day started on his famous salt march, the Mahatma left this morning, accompanied by Vallabhai Patel, on a tour of the Kaira district en route to Dandi, where on the shores of the Indian Ocean he proposes once more to make salt on March 14.

Wild Scenes.

Bombay, Yesterday.
This morning at the Congress building, which the Government of Bombay seized in October and has now restored in pursuance of the Irwin-Gandhi agreement.

Two hundred Congress volunteers, mostly armed with lathis, took possession of the building last night and ran up a red flag. They lay down in front of the building and prevented the members of a procession who arrived this morning for the formal opening of the building from entering, until they received an assurance that their grievances would be immediately considered.

Half an hour after the opening, however, malcontents reappeared and bombarded the Congress building with stones, and, armed with lathis, attacked the "loyal" volunteers, a score of whom were slightly injured. The Police were called out, but Mr. Nariman, the President of the Bombay Congress, pacified the aggressors by promising satisfaction of their claims.—Reuter.

1917 Proclamation.

Rugby, Yesterday.
Opening the Indian debate in the House of Commons this afternoon the Conservative Leader,

Nervy: "If the operation is dangerous and it was your own wife, would you recommend it?"
Henpecked Doc: "Dash it all, I'd insist on it!"
Smith's Weekly, Sydney.

Mr. Stanley Baldwin, recalled the terms of the 1917 Proclamation, reminding members of his Party that it recognised that the Empire was a living organism. It was in constant process of evolution. The process was being speeded up and few would have foreseen even a few years ago to what point it would have brought the relations of the great Dominions with the Mother Country. It could not be supposed that in this world of evolution India alone was static.

He declared that the Conservative Party stood exactly where it did on January 28, when a statement which not yet been challenged was made by Lord Peel. It stood exactly where it stood in the speech he delivered last week at Newton Abbott, in the course of which he said: "Our main objective is clear, namely, the objective of an All-India Federation. But when we have stated our objective we must not forget that many grave difficulties have to be surmounted before we can attain it." He had then added that what they had at present was only framework. The details were not filled in and many of them would present serious difficulties. Apart from the pledge of the honest attempt to confront these difficulties, and thus to carry on the work of the Conference, the Conservative Party was not committed.

Referring to what had appeared in the Press within the last 48 hours, he said that there had been a great deal of excitement about nothing. It was perfectly obvious that after the conclusion of the Conference the Government must decide the next steps for continuing its work. It was a simple matter of procedure. The Government had doubtless considered all divers courses of action.

There always had been and there still was genuine anxiety among many of his supporters as to whether at this moment the delegates who had been at the London Conference were going to India. He felt it only fair to relieve them of that anxiety and to acquaint them with his opinion. When he was asked on Monday if he had any objection to an authentic statement going out after that decision had been come to he felt he would much rather that no statement were made. These conversations were private but he noticed there was some communication between that committee of his Party and a hostile section of the Press and he preferred that any action he took should come out authenticated by himself. He knew the result might be unfortunate in its reactions in India; he believed, however, that what had been said since and during the present debate might help to remove those misunderstandings.

Tribute to Viceroy.

Proceeding, he expressed the confident hope that the Government would not think of effecting any major changes in the existing constitution whilst all these great questions discussed at the Conference were still in process of negotiation. Referring to the conversations between the Viceroy and Gandhi, he deprecated the use of such words as "Victory and Surrender." Such conclusion of the conversations as had been reached could not have been reached in the circumstances by any other Briton than Lord Irwin. It was a great tribute to his character—character which had given him prestige in India that nothing else could have afforded him. They could not judge the ultimate effect yet. Extremism in India or at Home died slowly, but whatever happened the settlement had definitely enlarged the area of goodwill and of co-operation.

The question of a constitutional Government of India was by far the most important and most difficult Imperial question we had ever had to face. More important even than party unity was the unity of all Parties on this subject. He was firmly convinced that writings such as appeared in the Daily Mail would do more to lose India for the Empire than anything else. The ultimate goal depended not on force, but on goodwill, sympathy, and understanding between India and the Government of Great Britain, and the great work of Lord Irwin was that he had after many years of suspicion bridged the gulf by ability and character.

He did not believe that the bulk of the party in the Commons or the country took a different view from that expressed by Lord Peel and by himself at Newton Abbott. So long as he was there he would carry out that policy in no ingenuously spirit.

Gandhi's Policy.

The Secretary for India, Mr. Wedgwood-Benn, said that Baldwin's words would be received with relief and delight in India. After paying tributes to public officials, particularly to the police and to the patriotism of the Indian delegates, he said that these delegates had returned convinced of the good faith of the British Parliament and so were able to explain the work of the Conference to their countrymen. As a result the area of co-operation was extended.

It was understood that Gandhi's policy was to substitute co-operation for non-co-operation and he had said that he would strain every term to make this provision at settlement permanent.

The result of the conversations had been received with universal approval in India and had resulted in a marked improvement in trade. The atmosphere created was one in which it would be very much easier to have baffled them. It was the earnest desire of the Government to continue with the least possible interruption the constitutional discussions of the Round Table Conference.

There were important practical difficulties in the way of sending a Parliamentary Delegation to India and there was much preliminary work which Indians themselves must undertake in particular issues left open by the minorities Sub-Committee. The Government regarded this work in India as of the greatest importance. They would seek the co-operation of leaders of every Party in re-establishing contact with the Indian side of the Conference.—British Wireless Service.

Binks: "Quite so! How long is she being away?"

DEATH DURING FILM DEATH DRAMA.

Cinema Manager Killed in Sound-Proof Room.

POLICE BAFLED.

Berlin, Jan. 21.
Three thousand Berliners in the great Mercedes Film Palace were at ten o'clock last night watching in spell-bound excitement a murder drama being enacted on the screen, while at the same time, not thirty yards away from them, in a small room in the same building, the manager of the theatre was being murdered by a mysterious assailant.

The detectives of the Berlin police to-day pronounce his death to be the most baffling murder mystery in Berlin during the last few years.

At 10.15 last night Hans Schmoller, the forty-nine-year-old manager of the theatre, was discovered by a programme seller sitting dead at his desk in his sound-proof room. A thin trickle of blood stained his collar. He had been shot in the throat.

Safe Rifled.

The police, who were immediately summoned, found that the safe had been rifled and the entire takings of the evening had been stolen.

Nobody had heard the shot. This fact, however, could be accounted for by the sound-proof walls of the office.

The police, although they remained on the premises throughout the night examining the entire staff, discovered practically no clue to the murderer's identity.

Commissioner Muller, however, the chief of the ten detectives in charge of the inquiry, has already formed a clear theory of the crime.

"The murderer," he said, "must have been acquainted intimately with the habits of the murdered man, who overnight, between 9.30 and 10.15 p.m., counted the box-office receipts."

"Only a person who had worked in the building could possibly have found his way about without asking for directions. I would defy any other person to find his way through the labyrinth of passages behind the stage leading to the manager's office."

"I see the murder like this: At about ten o'clock the murderer opened the door leading to the sound-proof office, closed it behind him, opened the inner door, and entered."

Two Shots.

"The manager must have known him well. I surmise this from the comfortable and informal attitude in which he reclines in his chair. There is not the slightest sign of any movement of surprise on his part at the entrance of the murderer."

"I can imagine him making some such remark to the murderer as, 'Now, my dear fellow, what can I do for you?' just as the murderer levelled his revolver and fired point-blank."

"The murderer seems to have been trembling violently with excitement as, still clutching his revolver in one hand, he gathered together the notes lying on the table and added them to a bag full of silver which he took from the safe. His hand was shaking so badly that, without meaning to do so, he pulled the trigger second time and fired a shot into the steel-coated outer door through which he had come."

"Beside himself with fright, he then rushed out of the door, down the stairs, and through the wings of the stage to the street."

Three people claim to have seen a man who may have been the murderer, but as the description in each case is a different one, the police do not as yet attach much importance to these clues.

The organist of the cinema declares that he saw a man dressed in a long black cloak hurry across the stage. He recognised him, he says, as an artist formerly employed at the theatre.

DEAN'S NIGHT VIGIL.

PSALM AT BEDSIDE OF DYING WIFE.

"The Lord is my Shepherd; I shall not want. Yea, though I walk through the Valley of the Shadow of Death, I will fear no evil."
"For Thou art with me; Thy rod and Thy staff they comfort me."
Psalm 23.

Manchester.

Dr. Hewlett Johnson, Dean of Manchester, standing alone beside his dying wife, repeated the whole of the twenty-third Psalm just before she died in the early hours of the morning.

The household staff were asleep, and the dean, out of consideration for their comfort, did not rouse them to tell them the news until daybreak. Instead, he called his wife's sister, Mrs. Maddocks, to the bedside, and then he himself left the Deanery, to notify the doctor.

The dean has himself acted as

MOMENTOUS STEP IN CHURCH REUNION.

Decision of Patriarch Who Faced Death.

LETTER TO PRIMATE.

The Archbishop of Canterbury has received an historic document from His All Holiness Meletios II, Pope and Patriarch of Alexandria, setting forth the decision of the Holy Synod of the Metropolitans of the Apostolic and Patriarchal Throne, of Alexandria to recognise the validity of Anglican orders, held to be invalid by the Roman Catholic Church.

The statement withdraws its precautionary negative to the acceptance of the validity of Anglican ordinations, and pronounces that if Anglican clergy should join the Orthodox Church they would not be re-ordained.

Such a remarkable step towards reunion has come about through the Lambeth declarations, which have satisfied the Holy Synod in regard to the teaching of the Anglican Church in the matter of Apostolic Succession, "a real reception of the Lords Body and Blood," and as to the sacrificial aspect of the Holy Communion, and the sacramental character of ordination.

"We rejoice," says the Patriarch, "to see the middle wall of partition being thrown down more and more, and we congratulate your Beatitude that under God you have had the felicity of taking the initiative in furthering that work."

Meletios II. was Archbishop of Athens during the premiership of Venizelos. Throughout the war he was a devoted friend of Great Britain and her Allies, and always an advocate of close relations between the Orthodox and Anglican Communities.

He was elected to the Oecumenical Throne of Constantinople after the Synod at Phanar had been freed from Turkish interference. After the horror of the massacre of Orthodox bishops and people in Smyrna and by the Black Sea he was urged to leave Stambul rather than suffer similar fate on the return of the Turks. He resolutely refused to leave his people.

Twice he was brutally assaulted in Phanar, and once carried away by marauding and hostile bands of Turks, but it was not until his own Synod begged him to withdraw for the peace of the Church that he went on board the British gunboat Golden Horn, and was taken in safety to Greece.

Britain's Friend.

There he lived outside Athens in a cottage, a magnificent figure in retirement, until, on the death of Phyllis, the Synod of Alexandria elected him despite the efforts of Anglophobe enemies, and he reigned now over the Orthodox of Africa, still, as ever, the stalwart friend of Britain.

He visited Britain last year to attend the Anglo-Catholic Congress and the Lambeth Conference, going upon his arrival to the shrine of King Edward the Confessor in Westminster Abbey to bless this country.

The decision of the Synod is likely to have important results in the cause of reunion between the East and Canterbury, and creates a profoundly interesting problem as to which is right, the Eastern Churches or the Church of Rome, in the question of the catholicity of the Anglican Church.

Among other things they have shipped 150 carloads into the State of Maine and 60 to Cuba. The Carolinas and Virginia have also taken large quantities.

BILLIARD PLAYER HAS ANXIOUS TIME.

McConachy's Wife in Danger Zone.

London, Feb. 5. McConachy, the New Zealand billiard player, who is at present engaged in a match with Davis, in Dublin, yesterday told a reporter that he and Mrs. McConachy are very worried about their families, who are in the district in which the earthquake occurred. "We have two boys at school at Clive, near Napier, and Mrs. McConachy's father's business is in a building right under the shadow of a huge chimney stack. If that collapsed on the building anything might have happened. I have cabled twice to friends in New Zealand but I have received no reply. I presume the cable wires are out of order."

SHANGHAI POLICE VICTORS.

Accident to Clarke Spoils Game.

PLUCK AGAINST SKILL.

Shanghai Police beat the Hong Kong Police by three goals to one yesterday. The game was frankly a poor exhibition of football, probably due to the fact that Clarke, the home goal keeper, was hurt in the first two minutes, and had to leave the field. This seemed to upset the Hong Kong side, who made the great mistake of going on the defensive right away, instead of adopting the one-back game. Shepherd, who deputised for Clarke in the Hong Kong goal, cannot be blamed for the defeat. He did the best he could in a very difficult situation. Clarke would no doubt have saved the two goals in the second half, but, on the other hand, Shanghai were obviously the superior team, and one thinks would have won in any case.

The teams were as follows:—
Hong Kong: Clarke; Perkins and Britain; Thorpe, Minty and Shepherd; T. P. Cornwell, Fraser, Oram and Brown.
Shanghai: Bradley; McPhee and Scott; Westwood, Gash and Hurry; Oakley, Jack, S. Wilkinson, Turner and R. Wilkinson.
Referee: Mr. W. E. Hollands.
Linesman: Mr. J. W. Baldwin and Art. Bombr. Brown.

Oram's Great Game.

"Jock" Oram played the game of his life for Hong Kong. He started as inside left, but after Clarke's injury gave himself a roving commission. He was always in the thick of the fray, sometimes as a forward, at other times as a half, and, when danger threatened, as an extra back. He was ably assisted by Britain, who played a very steady game throughout. "Polly" Perkins, Britain's partner, although a bit unorthodox, managed, in conjunction with Thorpe, to hold up Shanghai's ever-threatening left wing. It would not be fair to criticise the Hong Kong forwards. All praise is due to them for holding their own in the first half. In the second half they made a few spasmodic dashes, but the lack of an inside man was clearly apparent.

Wilkinson the Opportunist.

Shanghai can play better than they did yesterday. They, too, made a mistake in concentrating on Wilkinson, the left winger. He was too closely marked for most of the game to do very much damage. Toward the end, after experimenting as centre forward, he put in one or two flashy runs. He is an opportunist, and actually won the match for his side. Shanghai went into the lead through his beautifully placed corner kick in the second half. He took the kick with his right foot, and the ball swerved into the net. The third goal also came from his corner kick. He dropped the ball right on to the head of S. Wilkinson, the centre forward, who "nodded" it on to Oakley, the outside right, who headed through. Shepherd touched the ball, but could not prevent it going in.

Gash In Form.

The outstanding players on the Hong Kong side were Oram, Britain, and Thorpe. Stanley Gash, for Shanghai, played his usual cool-headed game, plying his forwards with clever passes, and keeping Hong Kong's depleted front line in subjection. Hurry, the captain, had the measure of Tom Pile and Cornwell. When presented with the cup by Mrs. E. D. C. Wolfe after the match, he congratulated the Hong Kong side on their display, after losing their goalkeeper, who, as he said, was the most difficult man to replace. Sportmanship of this kind will keep the game flourishing.

Turner A Schemer.

Turner was the schemer of the visiting team. He missed a penalty, awarded against Perkins for a foul on R. Wilkinson, but made amends later, by jumping over the same player, who had slipped, to put a deliberate shot past Shepherd. This made the scores level, Hong Kong having scored the first goal of the match by a penalty taken by Tom Pile, which the referee awarded for a clear case of "hands" against McPhee.

The Hon. Mr. E. D. C. Wolfe was present at the match, together with Mr. Cogan, A. S. P. Shanghai.

CAT SAVE CHILDREN.

"MISTLETOE BOUGH" FATE
NARROWLY AVERTED.

Florence.
Two little girls in Parma have just been barely saved from death. They were neighbours in an apartment house, and neither of them was over six years of age.
They went to play with a cat in the attic of the building. Here they found a wooden chest which closed with a spring lock. They opened it and sat down in it. The heavy lid fell, closing the box so tightly that the children could not open it.
They called and cried, but no one heard them, and they became unconscious from fright and lack of air.
Meanwhile their absence was causing great anxiety, and the desperate parents searched in all directions, at the same time calling on the police for help as it was feared that the little girls had been kidnapped.
After eighteen hours the cries of the cat were heard coming from the chest and it was opened. A doctor was summoned and the children were restored.
It was found that there were small cracks in the wood of the chest, and but for these the children would have been suffocated.

MEDICAL EXAMINATIONS.

Elaborate Scheme Propounded
In France.

Not content with advocating prenuptial medical examinations, the Academy of Medicine at Paris has now come out wholeheartedly for a series of head-to-foot physical examinations from the moment a child enters the cradle until, wasted with age, he is placed in his grave.
The life span of every French child would be divided into definite periods, the beginning of each being marked by a thorough medical examination by Government appointed doctors.
The first examination would be made at birth, the child's physical defects and characteristics being carefully recorded. The second would be taken when the child entered a primary school, and the third when the child entered the stage of adolescence.

Military Service.

The next examination would be required when the young men presented themselves for military service. The girls would not, of course, undergo this examination, but would await their marriage when a clean bill of health would be required for the marriage certificate. The man, also, would need a prenuptial certificate.
After marriage, M. Georges Schreiber told the Academy, all the people of France should be examined periodically, perhaps every three years. The Academics agreed that such a system would prolong the lives of French people and make them more efficient in their labours, whether manual or intellectual.

The Academy has several times tried to get the Chamber of Deputies to pass a law making prenuptial medical examinations necessary before a marriage licence is granted. So far its efforts have been in vain.

It is not expected that they will push this new scheme of examinations until the first is put into effect. The Academy has also sponsored physical and mental examinations for all applicants for driving licences.

"MOST LOVING OF ALL."

Dean's Tribute to Wife in His Will.

Dean William Williams, of the Deanery, St. David's, Pembroke, an eloquent preacher in both the English and Welsh languages, who died on November 8, 1930, aged eighty-two, left the whole of his £1,828 estate to his wife.
His will reads:—
I give and bequeath all that I possess at the time of my decease to my wife Anne (or Annie) Williams, the best, most loving and

RUNAWAY TUSKER.

CAPTURED & MARCHED HOME
AFTER LONG CHASE.

Kandy, Jan. 31.
The runaway Maligawa tusker was brought to heel this afternoon at Lankatilake, near the famous temple of that name, four miles from where the beast was last seen yesterday, after it had led its pursuers a wild dance.
When they failed to capture the animal last evening at the Experiment Station, Gangoruwa, the men left it alone and squatted for the night with a line of fires barring the beast's escape in one direction and with the river on the other.
When morning dawned, however, the animal made up its mind to cross the river, and going up to the road, walked across to the New Peraniya Station and, going down, crossed the river again. It then got on to the Colombo road, and after a short tramp, struck across country.
It was followed to Lankatilake, where it was forced on to a muddy field. When it had got bogged in the slough a mahout clambered up its back by the tail and thereafter the huge beast was perfectly helpless.
Preparations were then made to take the animal back home, more than ten miles away, under proper security and rendered incapable of mischief. It is to the credit of those responsible for capturing the tusker that their task was accomplished with only one minor casualty.

REVIVAL OF PETTICOAT.

New Dress Designs
Forecast.

The petticoat, which women so carelessly discarded during the war, is to be revived. Dress designers and artists in London and Paris have concluded that with the new graceful evening dresses it is necessary for women to return to the custom of their mothers.
Women who adopt the "return to the petticoat" vogue will have the satisfaction of realising that not only are they providing an artistic setting for their evening gowns, but they are giving work to Nottingham industrialists. The new petticoats are to be executed in satin and lace.

This is in fact, to be a satin and lace season.
Mr. E. Symonds, managing director of Reville, who is an ardent supporter of the petticoat revival, because of its two-fold aim, forecast spring fashions to a Daily Express representative.

Colour Planning.

Amber gold, burnt ivory, old world lavender, aluminium, peach, and light grey were his predictions for the colour planning of the spring evening dresses. For day wear he prophesied blues, from navy to pale cornflower, greens, bronzes, reds, black and white, and flecked materials.

Dresses for day wear will be four inches below the knee, afternoon frocks about four or five inches from the ground, evening frocks an inch or two shorter than they were last year. "The dresses this year will show a greater femininity," said Mr. Symonds. "Styles are fuller while maintaining slender lines."

"Some women think the knitwear trade is dead. This is not at all the case. Knitwear is being made in Lancashire, and women who are wearing it are helping British trade."

"This will be a season of tailored suits. That is a good thing, for English women always look better in tailored suits than in any other garments."

The winter construction programme of the Montreal Harbour Commission calls for an expenditure of $3,500,000, and the employment of 1,800 men. It is announced by J. H. Rainville, chairman of the Board.

faithful of all wives, to be disposed of absolutely by her and for her use. My dear wife, if she survives me, will, I feel sure, take care to leave what she can for our dearest daughter Mary.

FRANCO-ITALIAN DEADLOCK.

Last Effort to Solve Disarmament Problem.

Paris, February 11.
A last desperate effort to bring about a rapprochement between France and Italy in the naval parity issue is being made by the British naval expert, Mr. Craigie, who arrived at Paris from Rome and who is carrying on conversations with the Premier, M. Briand and a number of important personages, including the French disarmament delegate, M. Massigli.

Quarters in close touch with the British Embassy express the hope that a reconciliation will be effected, since failing that, Britain will be compelled to revise her attitude to the London Naval Pact. It is understood that France's plans of including in this year's naval programme provision for laying down a new type of 28,000 ton cruiser, also forms an important subject of Mr. Craigie's conversation.

However, the Press in discussing the prospects of Mr. Craigie's mission, views them with extreme pessimism, some newspapers insisting that France must make up for the losses in naval armament caused by the five months' Franco-Italian naval holiday which terminated on January 1.

ROUND THE CINEMAS

WILL ROGERS'S NEWEST DELIGHTS.

"SO THIS IS LONDON."

Will Rogers has contributed his homely wit and philosophy to the lecture platform, to the vaudeville stage, to musical comedy, and through the medium of the printed word in the columns of the Press, but none has seemed to reveal the real Will Rogers as does the talking screen. This was first proven when Rogers made his first audible picture, "They Had To See Paris," and doubly confirmed in his second starring picture, "So This Is London," now being screened in the Queen's Theatre. His present film is far more entertaining than his first mainly because it is better fitted to Rogers's distinctive personality. As the wealthy owner of a cotton mill in Texas who is keenly bitter against Britain and all Britons, chiefly because they are not Americans, Rogers is at his best. And when he is forced to go to Britain on business and happens to meet titled people who are just as hateful toward Americans, then there comes a mutual understanding which makes for a delightfully amusing comedy drama. Irene Rich heads the supporting company with Maureen O'Sullivan and Frank Albertson interpreting with delightful freshness the roles of the young lovers. Adapted from the stage play by Owen Davis, sen., the screen version proves 100 per cent. more entertaining under the able direction of John G. Blystone.

"HIT THE DECK"

That any goal can be attained if one doesn't lose hope is the belief of Polly Walker, beautiful leading woman in Radio Pictures' big musical show "Hit the Deck," now in the Central Theatre. "For a long time I had wanted the song, 'Sometimes I'm Happy,' as a special number for my work," said Miss Walker, "and after three possible chances at last I got to sing it!" "While with a show called 'The Night Out' the number was all set for me but before the show opened the prima donna decided she would like to sing it so I had to give it up. The show failed before it reached New York and the song didn't go over. "When 'Hit the Deck' was being prepared for the New York stage, I was considered for the leading role but plans went awry and I lost out again. This time the show went over and the song became a tremendous hit. "I had almost given up hope of ever getting a chance to sing it when I was selected for the role of Looloo in Radio Pictures' film version of 'Hit the Deck' and given the long-awaited opportunity to feature this number, which is the theme song of the picture."

"HIGH SOCIETY BLUES."

When composers write a new song for an audible picture, their work has just begun. After the song is finally accepted by the director of the picture and approved by studio executives, the composers must assist arrangers in preparing the score for orchestration, then aid the musical director in working out the proper rendition of the number. Last of all, they rehearse the principals who sing the song. This is the routine followed by Joseph McCarthy and James F. Hanley in preparing the song numbers which Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell sing in "High Society Blues," Fox Movietone musical romance, coming on Sunday to the Queen's Theatre. McCarthy, author of "Rio Rita," "Kid Boots," "Irene," and many other Broadway successes, and Hanley, who has written scores of popular hits, wrote five songs for the production. In addition to Miss Gaynor and Farrell, others prominent in the cast include William Collier, sen., Hedda Hopper, Joyce Compton, Louise Fazenda, Lucien Littlefield, Brandon Hurst, and Gregory Gaye. David Butler directed.

Is Your Indigestion
Intestinal?

Many people associate indigestion entirely with the stomach. Yet, in a great number of cases, it is in the smaller intestine that the indigestion is seated. The digestive processes commence at the mouth, where mastication and salivary action take place. Of course, it is in the stomach that the most important process takes place, but digestion continues to a great degree after the food leaves the stomach, very important action taking place in the small intestine, continuing in a diminishing degree in the larger intestine. Not until the food reaches the descending colon, does digestion entirely cease.

It is therefore obvious that anyone suffering from indigestion should take steps to get the whole of the food tract into a healthy condition. For this purpose there is nothing finer than Pinkettes. These dainty, non-gripping, non-habit-forming, liver and laxative pills have a cleansing and tonic effect on stomach, liver and intestines, toning up the whole of the digestive tract and eliminating organs.

Biliousness, sick headaches, flatulency, constipation, all forms of indigestion, stomach and bowel troubles are quickly relieved by Pinkettes. Keep a vital handy, obtainable from all chemists.

FOR SOUTH SEA
ISLE.Girl Tired of "Frantic Life of Cities."

Miss Brenda Dean Paul, the beautiful daughter of Sir Aubrey Dean Paul and Lady Paul, of Westward Ho, Devon, is weary of the distractions of modern social life and is leaving England this month to live on Tahiti, in the South Pacific.

Miss Paul, who is 23, said to the Daily Mail:

"I shall live in Tahiti, which is the largest of the French Society Island, in the Pacific Ocean, and is a 10-days trip from San Francisco."

"It is a heavenly spot, so completely peaceful, and although there are fewer than a dozen white residents I know I shall be very happy there. I am tired of the frantic life of cities, and moreover I have fallen in love with the climate and the loveliness of Tahiti."

"For some time after I left school I appeared on the stage. I was in 'The House of Glass' and 'Lido Lady,' among other things. While I was staying in Hollywood last year I visited the island. I have taken a house, and all that I am taking with me are my two dogs and a small suitcase. Anything else that I shall need I can buy from the Chinese shopkeepers at Tahiti."

The Legend of the Fruit.
"During my visit I came across a native fruit which is very difficult to find. I picked some. While eating it I met some natives who became wildly excited. They declared that there is a legend that whoever eats the fruit is destined to return to Tahiti. I left the island with no intention of going back, but ever since I have had a queer longing to return, and at last I have succumbed."

"There is plenty of sport to be had—shark-spear and wild-beat hunting—and I have hundreds of books at the house. The Tahitians are wonderful people, simple, gay, lazy, and most friendly. All the work on the island is done by Chinese, who keep the shops."

"A girl friend is going with me, and will live with me for some time."

Miss Dean Paul's mother, Lady Paul, is widely known as "Pol-dowski," the composer daughter of the late Henri Wieniawski, the Polish violinist.

Overland China Mail.

A WEEK'S PAPERS IN ONE.

The ever-present Communist menace in Hong Kong was exemplified during the week by the cold-blooded murder of a Canton detective who was working in conjunction with the local Police. The affair occurred in the heart of the City, and the murderer made good his escape. The OVERLAND CHINA MAIL gives details of the outrage.

A series of impudent frauds upon local tradesmen led to a sentence of six weeks' hard labour being meted out to an Australian. The man was arrested in Manila en route to Australia. The OVERLAND CHINA MAIL includes a complete report of the hearing.

A reassuring statement as to the purity of the water supply of the Colony was given by Dr. Minnet, Government Bacteriologist, in the course of an interesting address on the subject to the Rotary Club. The water, he said, was practically as pure as that in London. The full report of the address is contained in the OVERLAND CHINA MAIL.

The OVERLAND CHINA MAIL also includes a report of an overloading case with some rather unusual features. The ship in question, the s.s. Tai Lee, is owned by the Sze Yap Company, whose internal dissensions led to a protracted Court case only recently.

Forecasts of a radio-telephone service from Hong Kong to London were made at the annual meeting of the Hong Kong Telephone Company, held during the week. It was stated, in addition, that the adoption locally of the automatic system had proved entirely satisfactory. The OVERLAND CHINA MAIL gives a full account of the meeting, together with a complete report of the meeting of the Hong Kong, Canton and Macao Steamboat Company.

Sport, as usual, is brightly dealt with by the OVERLAND CHINA MAIL staff of experts.

There is no phase of the life of the Colony or of China that does not receive attention in the OVERLAND CHINA MAIL—the weekly paper that YOU MUST ORDER NOW.

Letters to relatives and friends in (to, and Canada testify to the keen pleasure and interest its weekly arrival brings.

For your folks at Home to receive this weekly budget, or to keep yourself posted with affairs during your absence, all that you have to do is to drop a note to the "Overland China Mail."

The word "Overland" is a reminder of the experience behind the production, it having been published since the early days of the Colony, to be sent OVERLAND of the three months, the because there was no Suez Canal, and that was the quickest route by which to get mail Home. In the month of time the "Overland China Mail" has become the most popular weekly news budget, as it contains the news and special features from the daily "China Mail" that make a studied appeal to people with any interest whatsoever in Hong Kong, and what more could be desired?

TALKIE TALKS

"Hit the Deck"—A New York
and London success. Polly Walker, a new-comer from the stage, does not cause much sensation as the incredibly innocent coffee house girl, but Jack Oakie makes us forget the Valentinos and other shes
and want to see his plain cheery satisfactory personality. It does not matter whether he be chewing gum, singing, dancing or making love, he pleases. Go by all means if only to hear Margaret Padua sing the Hallelujah chorus at the Negro spiritualistic meeting; good lighting here in shades and again
the strong light. Personally I do not think they put over the song
as well as they did in the original stage version. This Oakie boy is good. Shot up to stardom quicker than any other comedian. He is concoited; but it is a nice fresh amusing conceit. Used to be a telephone operator on the New York Stock Exchange. Never has forgotten that he worked the switches when the Prince of Wales visited Wall Street. The only time, he says that he felt nervous. Joined an amateur Club, then to the vaudeville, and revue. By sheer nerve tackled Wesley Ruggles in his office at the Universal Studio,
signed to him, then to Paramount,
where he has an iron-bound contract. Worth seeing. (Central).

"Monte Carlo." Jeanette Macdonald as Countess Vera who runs away on the eve of her marriage to a rich Prince, makes a play for the fortune she lost in refusing to marry a man she hated—wins—
only to lose it in the next few moments. Then she meets the delightful Count (Jack Buchanan)
who poses as an ideal hair-dresser, really has plenty of money, sings tuneful songs, in which she outshines him—marries and lives happily ever after, as they will do always—in musical comedies. This Paramount feature will open the very lovely new King's Theatre in
—when shall I say?—end of March? No matter, we shall hear in good time to make it a grand opening and send-off. Think of it. From EVERY seat
a perfect view of the screen,
and seats that are really a joy, and warmth to the feet with rubber matting (needed on some of the nights we have here of late).
There will be one road which will lead us all to the Kings to hear this delightful operetta, and to see our kindest remarks on the newest acquisition for our amusement. Are we not lucky to have so many theatres showing us first class releases? Our thanks are due to the various managements who add to the joy of life in this lovely home-town of ours. I do not advise. I just KNOW you will never miss this show. (King's).

"So This is London" with the favourite of Kings, Presidents and the people, Will Rogers. "For the people, of the people, Will

Ruth Chatterton.

Rogers is one man who can afford to remain perfectly natural.
He does not act, he is himself.
The screen means nothing to him,
neither did the stage. He talked to us, he made us laugh. We all loved him in "So This is Paris," but here is the sequel which carries America's unofficial Ambassador to Britain's shores. It will amuse those who like to see Americans and Britons caricatured.

It shows natives of each country
as they are imagined by the ignorant
on both shores of the Atlantic.
We see Will Rogers as Hiram Draper, an American it would be hard to find in real life, and we see Lumsden Hare, as Lord Worthing
embodying the type of a Briton such as could not exist. It is all exaggerated, but amusing. I did not think it so good as the other.
Irene Rich, always lovely, with Maureen O'Sullivan and Frank
Albertson do their parts creditably.
I would not miss it. (Queen's).

"Slightly Scarlet." Two crooks,
a beautiful lady and a British gentleman are on the trail of the same necklace, when love comes along, and they reform each other.
Very sweet and romantic, but that is not the best part of the story.
There are many laughs when you meet the American family who spend their lives trying to lure nobility into their drawing-rooms, Helen Ware, Virginia Bruce, and Eugene Pallette are all good. The hero is Clive Brook—menace Paul Lukas, and heroine Evelyn Brent.
It is the sort of picture that passes a pleasant evening. Clive Brook is an outstanding success in the Talkies, as he was in the Movies.
The young American idea is that he typifies the average British gentleman. Retiring, calm, direct, looks indifferent, but is not; it is just his sense of moderation. Is still at a loss to know why he is such a success. Delightful wife, two adorable children, wonderful home, only enjoys the company of the select few Britons who make up that small colony in Hollywood.
He loves the Talkies, has a big asset in his accent, the public (mostly Mrs. Public and daughter) like his take-me-or-leave-me attitude. He always seems to be at his best with Ruth Chatterton—is very popular with the staff at the studio; receives an enormous amount of "Fan" mail. Recently, paid a return visit to his home town, and his legions of admirers
gave him the sort of welcome they give Ronnie Colman and the great little Charles. Mobbed in the world. Quite an interesting play his one. (Central).

There are two men of whom I would write in the highest praise
—Stan Laurel and Oliver Hardy, who have scowled and whimpered
their way into the hearts of us all.
Doing commonplace things in a commonplace manner is the secret of the humour. Stan Laurel drifted about in pictures for ten years quite unknown. Hardy travelled in obscurity for fourteen years.
Now when a Picture Palace on Broadway announces their features every one chuckles. When their names are thrown on the screen in London, Paris, Sydney, not forgetting the Orient, you will hear a murmur of delight. They are born comedians, and in three years together have gone up from obscurity. In 1910 Stanley Jefferson went to America with "Fred Karno's London Company" (in which the greatest little comedian on earth was a member). Oliver Hardy was making a bare living in tent performances and minstrel shows. He went to Hollywood in 1913, and Laurel in 1917. Hardy thought he might do well as a villain. Laurel had aims to be a comedian, and with that joyful smile which is now famous, added to the fact that from fifteen he had pantomimed, he thought he would find an opening. Not till 1925 did they meet. They had been through the mill in the meantime, taking anything that was offered, and getting nowhere. In 1927 they made their first two reels, "Duck Soup," and the now world-famous team of Charles Farrell.

"High Society Blues," with the adorable Janet Gaynor, and her handsome boy friend, Charles Farrell, in a second edition of their first so-called musical production;
"Sunny Side Up." Charles and Janet sing and play the "uke" on every occasion—it was Jan's last effort before she ran away to Honolulu. You may like it. I shall say no more. "Sunny Side Up"

was a box office riot in this Colony. This may be the same. It is such a blessing for the managements that we do not think alike.
I love the pathetic Janet in parts
like "Seventh Heaven," and I am glad to say she has such a part in
"The Man Who Came Back" which
she is doing now at Fox Studio.
(Queen's).

Charming Janet Gaynor starring in "High Society Blues" with Charles Farrell in the Queen's Theatre on Sunday.

As an audible actor, George O'Brien is still a novelty. He has the gift of speech, easy, natural and spontaneous. I like his laugh, his first Talkie here, missed his
town, and his legions of admirers
gave him the sort of welcome they

Theatre who had the pleasure of seeing Mr. O'Brien on Sunday evening were delighted with his manner and appearance, certainly a fine type.

George O'Brien.

Many months ago I said I hoped the Paramount would not burden us with Moran and Mack. (The Two Black Crows) in their overrated Talkies. Let us hope, for the sake of the local public they spare us from their other effect—that is a good word and expresses what I mean—for EFFORT it certainly was. (Central).

in Beverly Hills about thirteen

they use is a slight touch of grease
paint, and those Derby hats.
Hardy combs his hair down in that

Laurel with his sandy hair and their vogue will not last for ever.

When that time comes they will go

CENSOR'S WARNING.

BAN ON SORDID FILMS.

A warning to the trade that films
featuring brutal and sordid scenes will be banned is contained in a circular letter addressed to the companies by Mr. Edward Shortt, K.C., Chief Censor.

"In our last reports," the Censor states, "attention has been drawn to the tendency to produce incidents of prolonged and gross brutality and sordid themes, which, it must be admitted, are unwholesome and repugnant to large sections of the audiences in this country."

"Such films have required drastic eliminations and modifications before they could receive the Board's certificate."

"Of late, it has been noticed with regret that films are being produced in which the development of the theme necessitates a continuous succession of grossly brutal and sordid scenes, accompanied, in the case of auditory films, with sounds that accentuate the situation and nauseate the listener."

"No modification, however, drastic,
can render such films suitable for public exhibition. In consequence, the board takes this opportunity of notifying the trade that,
in future, no film will receive the board's certificate in which the theme, without any redeeming characteristic, depends upon the intense brutality of unrelieved sordidness
of the scenes depicted."

Mr. Herbert Wilcox, the British film producer, interviewed at Elstree, said that he welcomed the board's action.

"Although, in principle, I am opposed to all forms of film censorship," he added, "I think the board has acted wisely in this matter. It has to be recognised that the introduction of sound into films, by heightening realism, make unpleasantly vivid things which the silent film left to the imagination."

"Scenes which were possible and permissible in silent pictures, become repugnant when augmented
by sound."

"The best censors, however, are the members of the public themselves. They quickly show their disapproval of films which contain scenes of a sordid character. They just stay away."

"The good taste of the British film-going public is apparent to all discerning film producers. It would not be worth our while to give them films with unpleasant themes. I rejoice that it should be so. It is a most healthy sign."

SIR T. BEECHAM'S AFFAIRS.

Appeal from Bankruptcy Dismissed.

GOODS FOR WIFE.

The Court of Appeal, consisting of the Master of the Rolls and Lords Justices Lawrence and Roper, recently had before them an appeal from the Bankruptcy Court entered in the list as "re a Debtor (No. 954 of 1930) ex parte The Debtor v. the Petitioning Creditor and the Official Receiver, an appeal from a Receiver Order made by Mr. Registrar Warrington on December 5, 1930." The appeal was dismissed.

The Master of the Rolls, in giving judgment, stated that the debtor was Sir Thomas Beecham.

Mr. Kingham appeared for the debtor, and Mr. W. N. Stable for the respondents, the petitioning creditors.

Mr. Kingham said the receiving order was made on a judgment obtained against the debtor in respect of goods supplied to his wife. Counsel, who referred to the appellant throughout as the debtor, said that his debts and contingent liabilities amounted to about £140,000. But the debtor had an interest to the extent of about £500,000 in settled funds acquired under the will of his father. In November last a scheme came before Mr. Justice Bennett in the Chancery Division for the purpose of funds being raised on the debtor's life interest in the settlement, which would have been sufficient to enable him to discharge all his liabilities.

Inland Revenue Claim.
In reply to the Master of the Rolls, Mr. Kingham said that, spread over a number of years, there had been about 170 petitions filed against the debtor. These petitions had been got rid of. At the present moment there were about ten or eleven petitions outstanding.

The largest creditor against the debtor was the Inland Revenue, who had a claim for £80,000 in respect of super tax unpaid for some years. The Inland Revenue had agreed, if the other creditors would do likewise, to accept 10s. in the £ in settlement.

Mr. Kingham said he did not ask for the receiving order to be rescinded, but for a stay for a short time of the proceedings under the order to enable the debtor to put forward another scheme. If adjudication followed the debtor's interest in the settled fund would be jeopardised.

The Master of the Rolls, in giving judgment, said the receiving order appealed from was made in respect of a judgment debt for £2,083 in respect of goods supplied to the debtor's wife. A scheme had been adopted in 1919. Since then, although the debtor had had considerable means, he had failed to keep within the annual sum to which he was entitled. There was no doubt that he had made considerable sums of money himself. That fact was apparent having regard to the claim put forward by the Inland Revenue authorities for super tax.

The Court had come to the conclusion that in the public interest the application ought not to be granted. The order of the Court was that the appeal of the debtor, Sir Thomas Beecham, Bt., should be dismissed, and that the advertisement of the receiving order should no longer be stayed.

The Lords Justices concurred.

CHINESE STEAMER EXPLOSION.

Tragedy Seventy Miles from Shanghai.

TWO HUNDRED DROWNED.

Shanghai, Yesterday.
It is reported that a heavily-loaded Chinese passenger steamer, the Ta Chi, bound up-river, blew up and sank last night seventy miles from Shanghai. It is believed that 200 were drowned.

The vessel carried 100 Chinese soldiers among 300 Chinese passengers, and it is reported that a fire broke out aboard as the result of soldiers throwing cigarette ends into the cargo, which was mainly of cotton. An explosion quickly followed the outbreak of fire.

Harrowing Scenes.

Later.
The loss of the Ta Chi is confirmed by a Customs cruiser which has brought survivors to Shanghai. It was patrolling in the Yangtze and saw smoke smothering the vessel. It steamed over to assist, but before arrival an explosion rent the Ta Chi's foredeck, instantly killing many deck passengers. The captain anchored the ship, but immediately a second explosion blew out the stern, throwing most of the remaining passengers into the river.

There were most frightful scenes as a mass of burned, injured and panic-stricken humanity struggled

RIOTERS STORM OIL DEPOT.

Forest Set on Fire in Korea.

CAUSE OF DISTURBANCES.

Tokyo, Yesterday.

It is reported that rioters stormed the oil depot and set fire to the neighbouring forest in the town of Koshu, in western Korea. Replying to interpellations on the affair in the Upper House, the Government stated that official despatches partly confirmed the alleged outrages, and the local authorities had been instructed to get the situation under control.

The disturbances apparently were due to opposition by Koreans to the proposed removal of the prefectural office from Koshu to a more convenient site.—Reuter.

In the water and on the wrecked ship.

The Customs cruiser and some native boats rescued 180 people out of about 400 known to be aboard the vessel, which was loaded to capacity with deck passengers.—Reuter.

[The Ta Chi was built in Hong Kong in 1904, and was a wooden single screw vessel of 220 tons, formerly known as the Tung Ning. It was registered at Shanghai and flew the Chinese flag.]

The Reuter cable gives the name as Pa Chi, which is probably an alternative rendering.]
